MRS. GIBSON FIRES AT PHOTOGRAPHERS

Falls To Hit "Hard Boiled" Newspaper Photographers Who, With Reporters, Make Her Life Miserable—Says Easton Is Husband.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 31.—Angered by the persistence of photographers who were trying to take her picture against her wishes, Mrs. Jane Gibson, woman farmer and eye-witness of the double murder of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. James Mills, the choir singer, fired upon them with a shotgun early today. Although she snail and took careful aim, she failed to hit any of the photographers.

A motor car containing a group of "hard boiled picture takers" drove up to the Gibson farmhouse in the morning. Mrs. Gibson, whose patience had been exhausted by her efforts to evade photographers, now turned them to go away. They failed to do so.

Mrs. Gibson then stepped from the house with a shotgun in her hands. Again she motioned to the photographers to go away. Instead of complying, they started to get out of the motor car. It was then that Mrs. Gibson fired.

The man at the wheel, without waiting for orders "stepped on the gas" and the car disappeared in a cloud of dust.

When news of the shooting reached New Brunswick four cars laden with reporters and photographers set out for the scene. The cars halted a safe distance from the Gibson house and the chauffeurs were instructed to leave the motors running in case the journalists were compelled to beat an ignominious retreat.

In the meantime Mrs. Gibson had left her home and telephoned for a detachment of state troops to protect her.

The reporters, flanked by photographers, cautiously approached the Gibson home and were met by Mrs. Gibson's son, William, who waved them back.

"Please go away," pleaded young Gibson. "We don't want anything like that to happen again."

The reporters drew off and held a council of war. They decided upon strategy and appointed a committee to call at the house.

When Mrs. Gibson saw them coming, she drew down all the blinds and locked the doors. When they were convinced that Mrs. Gibson would not see them, they contented themselves with searching the yard where they found the empty shell which Mrs. Gibson had used when she fired upon the photographers.

Then they drove away. As they passed down the road a great automobile laden with state police tore by. The policemen waved friendly to the reporters but said nothing. They were on their way to establish a guard over the Gibson house.

Mrs. Gibson had erected a sign at the entrance of her farm reading:

"No trespassing allowed under penalty of the law."

It was again reported that Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott would turn over his evidence to the Somerset county grand jury either this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

Some quarters are trying to throw doubt upon the authenticity of the story told by Mrs. Gibson. One report was that she is known as "Mrs. Easton" as well as "Mrs. Gibson," and that she has a husband. Hitherto she had been regarded as a widow.

The authorities attach no importance to the finding of a safe deposit key in the grass near the spot where the bodies were discovered. The key was bright and shining, bearing no rust, which showed that it had not lain in the rain and dew during the six weeks intervening since the crime.

After vigorously denying that she was the wife of William H. Easton, a New Brunswick tailor maker, Mrs. Gibson admitted later in the day that she is Easton's wife. Mrs. Gibson, pointing to her son, William, declared:

"I have not got a thing in God's world to hide. My boy Willie there is Easton's son and I am his mother. My first husband is dead. I had to let Easton go because he was such a hard drinker. The lies that are being told about me increase and with a plain purpose, but nothing can keep me from telling the truth about this case."

MAYOR APPOINTS A COMMITTEE

Mayor Crane has appointed the following committee to represent Kingston at the annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress to be held at the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C., on Wednesday and Thursday, December 6 and 7: William F. Rafferty, James Dwyer, John Hiltibrant, John D. Schoonmaker, Louis S. Cox, Arthur Burns and Frederick Coykendall.

Burglars Return $200 Certificate.

Miss Ruth Mabel Moore of Madison, believes that the burglars who blew the safe in the general store of S. J. Elting of that place recently have a heart. She bases this opinion on the fact that a $200 war saving certificate belonging to herself, that was in the safe, has been returned to her by mail from New Jersey. The burglars sent no note of explanation.

MUSSOLINI TELLS WHAT HE'LL DO

Fascisti, in Complete Control, Will Combat Radicals of All Sorts and Back Policies With Strong Army and Navy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, Oct. 31.—A powerful new Italy, with a strong army and navy and an aggressive foreign policy, is going to arise from the foundations of the old nation, wracked and torn by dissensions, Premier Benito Mussolini, the parliamentary leader of the Fascisti, told his followers today.

The new premier indicated that the government attitude towards the Vatican will not be changed.

Deputy Mussolini holds three portfolios in the new government—premier, foreign minister and minister of the interior.

The Fascisti, the extreme Nationalist organization, organized of ex-soldiers after the war, to combat Communism, Socialism and labor troubles, is in complete control of the nation. Every branch of public activity is dominated by this lodge. The Fascisti are going to fill the army and navy and all public offices with their members. The aims of this organization will enter into the domestic and foreign policy of the country.

"Italy has been born again amidst the travail of revolution, which, fortunately, was carried to victory with only a little bloodshed," said Signor Bianchi, secretary of the Fascisti. This city was given over to celebration today and but little business was transacted.

"Black shirts," as the Fascisti are called, were on guard throughout the city and suburbs. Order was maintained everywhere.

Workers affiliated with the Communist and Socialist parties were warned that stern penalties would follow attempts at disorder.

Advises from the provinces say that the local branches of the Fascisti, all well armed and organized, are in control everywhere. Recruiting offices have been opened and the membership of this popular organization is said to be growing beyond the one million mark.

The cabinet held its first meeting today. A resolution was adopted expressing loyalty to King Victor Emmanuel and to the nation.

The cabinet said that a strong Nationalist policy would be maintained in accordance with the aims of the Fascisti and that extra endeavors would be made to build up the industries and foreign trade of Italy. They said that the Fascisti ministers would strive with might and main to make Italy "strong, rich and prosperous."

They want to bring back the Italy of the Caesars.

Benedictine Auxiliary Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital will be held on Wednesday afternoon, November 1, at 4 o'clock, at the nurses' home. A full attendance is urged.

MERRITT TO MOVE GROWING MARKET

Has Leased and Will Improve Merchandise Corner, Washington and Hurley Avenues.

The large brick building known for years as Merritt's corner, at Washington and Hurley avenues, has been sold to Theresa DeCotte of Merds street, by Bertha Elmendorf of Hurley, the owner. For a number of years when the Higginsville section was thriving the late Edmund Merritt and son, James Elliot Merritt, did a large business there selling groceries and feed. After their death several years ago it stood idle for a time and later opened as a grocery by Victor Ludwig. The latter, who has a lease on the property for the coming two years, has transferred the same to Harry Merritt, the bustling market man of Washington avenue, a few doors below toward the viaduct, who has also purchased the large stock of groceries, etc., of Mr. Ludwig. The building contains two large stores fronting on Washington avenue and a smaller store on the Hurley avenue corner, with flats on the second floor. There is a driveway on the Hurley avenue side of the building with large shedroom. Mr. Merritt, whose business has outgrown his present location, will make a number of necessary improvements to the stores in the Merritt building and make it an up to date market and grocery and provision store, and expects to move his business to the new location about December 1.

FOUR FASCISTI IN NEW CABINET

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rome, Oct. 31.—Eight persons were reported killed and several wounded in a clash between Fascisti and Communists in the Sibirino quarter early today.

Sixty thousand members of the Fascisti ("black shirts"), made a demonstration of power and loyalty to the king. They marched before the Quirinal with shouts of:

"Long live the king!" and "We are loyal to our king!"

Afterwards there was a similar demonstration before the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier. Most of the Fascisti are ex-soldiers.

The new Fascisti cabinet, headed by Benito Mussolini, was sworn in and has begun to function.

The new cabinet, which was sworn in this morning, includes four members of the Fascisti (holding six of the most important portfolios), one Nationalist, one Conservative, two Democrats and two members of the Popular or Populist party. Three members are senators. It is probable that Premier Mussolini will offer the foreign ministry to Count Sforza, former holder of this office, or to Signor Demartino, Italian ambassador to London. In addition to Mussolini, other cabinet members are: Colonies, Federzoni; Justice, Ogilvie; finance, De Stefani; treasury, Tanassi; war, General Diaz; navy, Admiral di Rival; education, Gentile; public works, Carrazzini; industry, Rossi; labor, Cavazzoni; posts and telegraphs, Dicesari; pensions, Devecchi; agriculture, Deceplanti.

LICENSE PLATES AVAILABLE NOV. 15

Auto Business So Heavy at County Clerk's Office Force is Hard Put to Take Care of It.

Distribution of 1923 automobile license plates will begin at the county clerk's office about November 15. A room has been fitted up at left to the entrance to the office which will be used exclusively for the issuing of the plates. It is expected that about 10,000 pleasure car licenses will be issued in this county for next year and over 2,000 commercial plates. This additional work that has been put upon the county clerk by the state has kept County Clerk Sax and Deputy County Clerk Geroldsek on a jump from the opening of the office until late in the day, as the issuing of hunters' licenses, naturalization applications, receiving deeds and mortgages for record, all of which takes time to look over and affix stamps, compute mortgage tax, besides receiving scores of other papers for filing keeps them busy. For a considerable time of the year, Deputy Geroldsek is at the court house as clerk of the courts when in session which leaves the county clerk alone to attend to the many duties. Members of the bar who go to the county clerk's office on legal business and auto owners after license plates are of the opinion that the state auto department should provide a separate local bureau for the attention of all matters pertaining to autos or pay some one to look after license plates and transfers entirely for six months at least. This year the cards are also to be issued by the county clerk making more additional work. It may be interesting to car owners to show that the law provides that where an owner sells his car the original certificate of registration must be produced and signed by both parties. If the original certificate has been lost application must be made for a new one and a new certificate must be issued before a transfer can be made.

CARING FOR THE STATE'S INSANE

40,891 Demented Persons Now in Hospitals, Most of Them Suffering From Dementia Praecox.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Oct. 31.—The care of the insane in the 13 civil state hospitals is one of the biggest problems facing this state today, in the opinion of Dr. C. Floyd Haviland, chairman of the New York State Hospital Commission. At present there are approximately 40,891 men, women and children afflicted with every known form of dementia, entirely within the jurisdiction of the commission, besides 1,475 others in the state's two institutions for the criminal insane. In addition to this the commission has more or less indirect responsibility for the 43,248 inmates in the 27 licensed private institutions in the state.

Virtually every person in the state hospitals offers a personal problem which is being directly and personally studied and treated, according to Dr. Haviland. One thing that is not generally known is that one-third of the inmates of the insane hospitals recover in time and are returned to their own fireside. About one-third die in a short space of time after they are sent to the hospitals and the remaining one-third live on for years, but never regain their mental faculties.

"There are two vital facts in connection with the insane which do not seem to be very generally known," Dr. Haviland said. "The first of these is that an insane person is mentally the same as a sane person except in kind."

"The insane man or woman reacts to his or her delusions exactly as a sane one does to the varieties of life. Their delusions are just as real as your and my truths. If one is deluded, for instance, into believing that he is going to be shot as you would be if you were under actual sentence, he will react to the fear from his delusion exactly as you would from the actual fact."

"The other fact is that in the aggregate insane patients reflect their surroundings and treatment. There are individual variations of this latter rule, but generally it holds true."

Dr. Haviland said that interesting employment in hundreds of varieties is a great factor in bringing about normal reactions and winning the patient back to health. Virtually 90 per cent of the insane in this state are suffering from that commonest form of insanity, dementia praecox, and among these occupational diversion is being used with most marked success, according to Dr. Haviland. The praecox is a person in whom emotion has been submerged to the extent that in the extreme cases it is virtually dead.

Last year 7,017 new patients were admitted to the state hospitals for the insane, and during that period 3,570 patients, or more than one-half of the total of first admissions were sufficiently benefited to be discharged from custody, Dr. Haviland said.

FIVE-POWER NAVAL TREATY SEEMS NOT LIKELY TO BE CARRIED OUT

Hailed as Marking New Era in World's Peace, Italy and France Apparently Will Not Ratify, Making it Totally Ineffective.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 31.—The five power naval treaty produced by the Washington armament conference at such a cost of time and prodigious effort, and hailed as marking a new era in the world's history is in serious danger of dying a slow, easy death.

This disconcerting fact was borne home today upon officials of the American government by developments abroad within the last sixty days which have admittedly put ratification of the treaty into the far distant future.

The treaty does not become operative until all the five powers have ratified it and deposited their ratifications in Washington. Great Britain, the United States and Japan—the 5-5-3 powers—have ratified. France and Italy—the 1.6-1.6 powers—have not ratified and there is little likelihood of their doing so in the near future. The governments of France and Italy which negotiated the treaty have fallen, and both have been succeeded by governments of a more imperialistic turn of mind.

From being only mildly "concerned" over the failure of France and Italy to ratify the treaty, officials of this government have become downright apprehensive that the epoch-making agreement scrap-booking half the world's greatest navies, will never be ratified, and consequently never become effective. Administration officials are disinclined to discuss it publicly for fear of causing complications abroad, but it can be stated authoritatively that the fear actually exists.

France went home from Washington "discouraged" over her treatment here and promptly paid no attention to the treaty. The French government has consistently stressed France's need for military and naval protection of the highest order, and has but poorly concealed its dislike for the Washington treaty which relegated her to a fourth rate place among the world's naval powers.

Inquiries directed by American representative abroad as to when ratification might be expected, have met with evasions and shrugs by France's leading statesmen.

The change of governments in Italy and the coming into power of Deputy Mussolini and a strong Nationalist party, have now cast doubts as to Italy's intention to ratify the treaty.

It was noted with some concern by administration officials here that one of Premier Mussolini's first pronouncements was that Italy should have a strong army and navy and an aggressive foreign policy—all designed to make Italy once more a foremost power among the nations of the world.

This, in the opinion of observers here, bodes little good for the far famed naval treaty.

The crime as charged is a most atrocious one. This morning Bailey was represented by Attorney F. C. Merritt, and a hearing in the case was adjourned to Thursday morning. Bail was fixed at $750.

UNVEIL BEEKMAN SQUARE TABLET

D. A. R. Places Glacial Boulder at Junction of Two Important Highways at Rhinebeck.

The ancient and charming village of Rhinebeck was the scene of an important event on Saturday afternoon which attracted a large gathering from that village, and the adjacent parts of Massachusetts and Connecticut. It was the unveiling of a bronze tablet at Beekman Square to mark the crossing of the old King's Highway (the Albany Post Road) and the Ulster and Salisbury Turnpike. The ceremonies were under the auspices of Chancellor Livingston Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Theodore DeLaport, regent of the chapter, presiding. Previous to the unveiling there was a luncheon at the Beekman Arms at which addresses were made by Mrs. DeLaport, Mrs. Daniel W. Wilbur, regent of Mahwahawagish Chapter, D. A. R. of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Charles White Nash, regent general of the D. A. R. of the state, Mrs. Samuel VerPlanck of Beacon, Mrs. Ralph T. Butts of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Theodore T. Lewis of Kingston, Miss Young of Beekman, and Mrs. Kip of Yonkers.

The tablet was imbedded in a large boulder at the northeast corner of the lawn in front of the Beekman Arms, directly facing the junction of the two old highways. An artistic background was formed by the planting of a number of slender Junipers.

The tablet, which was tilted by two handsome American flags, was unveiled by two Boy Scouts at the close of a spirited address by Mrs. DeLaport.

Judge Clearwater, who delivered the dedicatory address said that he wished to congratulate the members of Chancellor Livingston Chapter, first upon the fact that they had secured and placed a pre-glacial boulder brought down by the second Labrador ice cap ages ago, and deposited by its melting on the slopes of the Taconics. It was an unusual boulder in that it had been so finely polished by glacial action as to suggest the work of a skillful lapidary. It could be shown to generations of school children as a proof of the character of the tremendous forces which formed the Valley of the Hudson as we know it.

Second, he congratulated them upon the patriotic impulse which inspired the placing of the tablet. Twenty-five years ago organizations of men alone were active in movements of this character, but the situation had changed today the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames and of other patriotic organizations composed of women had the leadership in patriotic movements. It was evident if there was any high-water crossing east of the Hudson river more important than the one which the boulder and tablet commemorate. In the early settlement of the country what is now the remnants of the Albany Post Road furnished the only means of communication between New York and Fort Orange, then Albany, aside from that of the waters of the river which were ice blocked five months in the year. Then from the valley of the Connecticut river by way of Salisbury, Rhinebeck, Kingston and the valley of the Esopus, the enterprising emigrants of Massachusetts and Connecticut found their way over what subsequently became the Salisbury Turnpike to the west and far west.

The Rhinebeck and Salisbury Turnpike was incorporated by a special Act of the Legislature passed on the 2nd of April, 1807, entitled "An Act to establish a turnpike corporation for improving and making a road from the west line of the town of Salisbury in the state of Connecticut to the Susquehanna river at or near the town of Jerico."

Opposition developed to its construction by residents of Columbia and Albany counties, but the most prominent men of Dutchess, Ulster and Delaware counties combined, the bill became a law, and the turnpike was built from the Connecticut line through Rhinebeck and Kingston to the Susquehanna. The commissioners who laid out the road were David Van Ness and James Cockburn and William Cockburn. The survey was filed in the office of the county clerk of the county of Dutchess at Poughkeepsie, and shows the line of the road from the one hundred sixtieth ninth milestone on the road to Boston, in the town of Salisbury, Connecticut, to Radcliff Landing on the Hudson river.

All the addresses were heartily applauded, and the successful efforts of Mrs. DeLaport warmly were lauded.

CECIRE'S ACCOUNT STRAIGHTENED OUT

In Surrogate's Court—Fees as Attorney in Wygant Estate Settlement Involved.

A final hearing was held Monday in surrogate's court in the matter of the contested accounting of Bernard F. Cecire, as executor of the last will and testament of Elmer E. Wygant, late of the town of Marlborough. Peter Cantline of Newburgh, attorney for Mrs. Wygant, the widow, objected to payment by the executor to himself as attorney of $3,000 for legal fees in settlement of the estate, and also to an item of $500 which the executor had paid to himself as attorney in the Irving Wygant estate. Mr. Cantline also claimed for Mrs. Wygant that Cecire had failed to account for $275 which had been paid to him by Elmer E. Wygant in his lifetime; also that the executor should be charged with $75 costs in three proceedings which had been brought to compel accountings at various stages of proceedings in surrogate's court.

After hearing the evidence Surrogate George F. Kaufman disallowed the claim of $3,000 for services as attorney and surcharged his account with $2,787. The surrogate also disallowed the executor's claim as attorney for services in the Irving Wygant estate in the sum of $350 and surcharged this amount in that account. Executor Cecire admitted that he had received from decedent $275 which through oversight had not been included in the account, and Surrogate Kaufman surcharged his account for that further amount. The claim that the $75 costs incurred at various stages in the proceedings should be charged against the executor was upheld and a deduction in that amount was ordered. A decree was directed to be settled before the surrogate on November 8.

The Elmer E. Wygant estate amounts to over $50,000.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The last will and testament of Berrett B. DuBois, late of the town of Shawangunk, has been admitted to probate in surrogate's court and letters testamentary issued to Ida DuBois, the widow. The value of the estate is $7,500 real, and $3,000 personal. The life use of the estate is given the widow, and at her death the residue and remainder is to go to the two daughters, Catherine C. Van Wyck and May Rosier. A J. Fowler of Newburgh is the attorney for the petitioner.

Letters of administration have been issued to Jennie Cline in the estate of Edward L. Van Vleet, late of the city of Kingston. The value of the estate is $500 personal, and a grant of letters is growing out of the death of decedent by automobile on Wheel street, this city a few weeks ago. Frank W. Brooks is attorney for the petitioner.

In the matter of the judicial settlement of the accounts of Charles S. Wood and Jacob A. Wood, as executors of the estate of Simon Schoonmaker, late of the town of Shandaken, citations were issued returnable December 4. Virgil B. Van Wagoner attorney for the petitioners.

In the matter of the petition of William A. Bilyou, as administrator of the estate of Mary E. Bilyou, late of the city of Kingston, for a judicial settlement of his accounts, a citation was issued returnable November 20. Walter N. Gill attorney for the petitioner.

In the matter of the judicial settlement of the accounts, with will annexed, of Harvey G. Gregory, as administrator of the estate of Daniel D. Gregory, late of the town of Plattkill, accounts filed and passed and decree directed. John N. Vanderlyn attorney for the petitioner.

In the matter of the judicial settlement of the accounts of Harvey G. Gregory, as administrator of the estate of Eleanor C. Gregory, late of the town of Plattkill, accounts filed and passed and decree directed. John N. Vanderlyn attorney for the petitioner.

GAY IN TRIMMING

New Autumn Models Are Literally Embroidery Covered

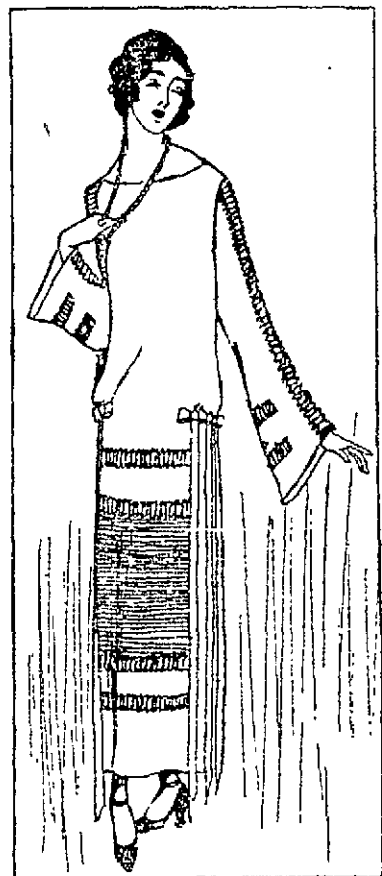

Many of the Latest Afternoon Dresses Made of Crepe Romaine, Which Resembles Georgette.

Fashion still pivots on trimmings, asserts a fashion authority in the New York Tribune. Apparently dressmakers do not think that their clients are ready to accept a new silhouette, consequently they make little effort to create one. Women have been so definite as to what they would and would not accept in the matter of silhouette that designers still depend upon trimmings to give variety to their models. While many new ideas are constantly worked out in trimmings, there are likewise many variations of old themes.

Disentangling women seemingly have not had enough of embroidery. Some of the new autumn models in silk are literally embroidery covered, the pattern being so exquisitely executed that it seems a part of the fabric.

Many of the newest afternoon dresses for autumn are made of crepe romaine of that new quality which resembles crepe georgette, but which has considerable more body and is more durable. A charming model developed in gray crepe romaine, is trimmed with hand-plated bands of faille ribbon set into open interstices, which are embroidered all around. Broad panels of tiny hand-run tucks in both the back and front give further ornamentation and weight to the dress.

Two colors of georgette crepe are charmingly combined in some of the new autumn dresses, the two tones being brought together by means of very elaborate embroidery. Navy and gray is a favorite combination. The dresses are so made that they appear to be almost of one solid color viewed from one point and of another when viewed from another point. For instance, in the combination of blue and gray the back of the dress is almost all blue and the front all gray.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

For the semi-dress occasion the black charmeuse gown trimmed in velvet or brocade ribbon is usurping the place of the beaded gown. A long-lined black charmeuse has wide bands of electric blue velvet ribbon extending from the dropped shoulder to below the elbow where the charmeuse begins again. White beads in tiny design almost entirely cover the velvet. No other trimming is used.

Many of the velvet hats have reversible crowns with velvet on one side and embroidered effects of metallic cloth on the other. This treatment provided a hat for dressy wear as well as for street wear.

Crepe weaves continue to reign for afternoon wear in preference to the shiny surfaced fabrics.

The little draped turbans of silver or gold cloth which are so popular in Paris at present are being pressed into prominence by many of the American shops. They are designed for evening wear and are suitable for any color combination with which they are worn.

APRONS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Cretonne and Percale Excellent Material for Over Garment for Miss of Seven.

The dressiest of aprons for the young miss of about seven years is made of cretonne and percale. It is the sort of garment that can be slipped on over rompers and worn as a regular dress or slipped on over a regular dress when romping is in order. The flaring skirt is cretonne in a gay design of red and green birds, blue and cinnamon posties. The bodice is of cinnamon percale, in solid color. Patch pockets and sash are of the percale also.

The Wiser Course.

"The Aethon Globe says a young man was killed in that town the other night because he is always telling what a great man he is, and the young lady is going to marry another man who is always saying what a great girl she is.—Kansas City Star.

THE UTILITY HAT OF SATIN

This general utility hat of black satin is given distinction by a "splashed" bow of velvet, and lends itself to the average face.

ADDS DESIGN TO THE DRESS

Use Silver and Gold Embroidery Only at Places Where It Will Give Weight.

Many of the dresses made of dark blue or black or the darker shades of brown are embroidered most intricately in threads of silver and gold. This embroidery is applied only at the places where it will help to give weight to the silk and add design to the dress as a whole. It is never added as an extraneous trimming, but it conforms to the lines of the dress as a whole and insists upon being a well-considered portion of that dress.

Of panels there are many. They hang lower than the hems of the dresses in almost every instance and there is a decided tendency to repeat the embroidery of the frock, whatever that may be, on the ends of the panels, giving them, thereby that modicum of extra weight which adds so much to their general appearance.

Some of the panels are plaited and when this is the case, they are apt to swing about in the breeze with more abandon than when they are made on plainer lines and ornamented with embroidered motifs. These panels in many instances literally sweep the floor, even though the skirts are some inches shorter. They are taking the lead decidedly in the direction of longer skirts and they seem gracefully to indicate the fact that, before many months have passed, skirts in general will have taken the hint and dropped to that lower level.

There is still some controversy, of course, about whether the long skirts shall prevail, but to a practiced eye it looks as though the designers are having things all their own way and that another season will see the sweeping skirt an accepted thing.

CARROT IS SHADE FOR COATS

Wraps for Little Tots, in New Color Which Is Cross Between Rose and Terra Cotta.

An attractive little group of tots' coats is one with carrot, a new shade, introduced. The fabric belongs to the duvetine family and is especially attractive in this happy shade, a cross between old rose and terra cotta.

The coats are sprightly affairs, many featuring unusual yoke handings, the yoke sometimes covering the shoulders and a section of the sleeves, and again forming a part of the bodice, front and back.

Fur collars are features of each number, and reflect a grown-up air, which is bound to be appreciated by their small wearers. One model has a shawl collar of beaver, and resembles nothing so much as a gentleman's dress coat. Another coat has a brown caracul collar, and still another, also favoring beaver as its trimming shows the collar in stand-up rolled effect.

Pockets are discreetly inserted, some in vertical handing and others choosing a slanting direction.

Plaids, emanating from a yoke, give added fullness to a model which boasts a generous beaver collar. One smart little number has a small single animal scarf serving the purpose of a collar.

Hats to match are displayed with the coats.

THE USE OF WOVEN STRIPES

Arrangement in Different Designs Is Interesting on Handkerchiefs; Hems Are Hand-Rolled.

The use of woven stripes in different designs is interesting on handkerchiefs. Two fairly wide stripes are featured on one model. These cross at the corners. Others have a number of single thread stripes, white still others feature very broad woven stripes. The hems on these handkerchiefs are hand-rolled.

Color is used a little more delicately here than other places, but is very effective. One handkerchief has a border inside the hem which runs near the corner and stops, the hem at the corner becoming colored. Embroidery in a simple scroll design in color, and in little white flowers, fills up the space between the inside borders. Another number uses little colored bars, alternating horizontal and vertical.

Black stripes are printed on colored linen, which is woven with a little thread stripe in self-color.

MRS. CARLETON'S MOTHER DEMANDS FURTHER PROBE

Not Satisfied With Coroner's Verdict of Murder.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Havre, Montana, Oct. 31.—Death to all else except the call of motherhood. Mrs. Joseph Pyle, mother of Mrs. Margaret Carleton, who, according to a coroner's verdict, in a fit of insanity, fired the shots that ended her life and that of the Rev. Leonard J. Christler, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church here, declared today her intention to sift to the bottom the mystery which she insists surrounds the double killing.

Today she announced she will demand from the prosecuting attorney of Hill county an answer to these questions: "What motive have you established for the crime?" "What effort has been made and with what result to establish the

BOY MINISTER DEFENDS SELF ON MURDER CHARGE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Statesboro, Ga., Oct. 31.—Opening with a short prayer, Elliot Padrick, boy minister, this afternoon testified in his own defense at his trial here on charges of murdering his wife and mother-in-law last June.

Heads were bowed all over the courtroom in response to a request from Padrick for court and spectators to join him in the prayer. He then launched into a dramatic and fiery sermon.

Moral Sentiment First. Science . . . necessitates a faith commensurate with the grander orbits and universal laws which it discloses. Yet it does not surprise the moral sentiment. That was older, and awaited expectant these larger insights.—Emerson.

"BY THEIR WORKS"

The difference between the Miller administration and that of former Governor Alfred E. Smith is just that between the man who does something and the man who talks but who fails to do anything else but talk. There can be no doubt whatever in the mind of a single reading citizen relative to the progress made under the direction of Governor Miller during the past two years. What has been done can be seen and can be touched, while on the other hand it would be difficult to point to any outstanding accomplishment by Smith. His recommendations were many but results were few.

In the campaign now drawing to a close Governor Miller is declaring specifically what he has done, and, in contrast, Smith is saying what he would have done had he the tools. Smith, like all poor workmen, is ready to blame his tools, but he forgets that the good workman, if necessary, would attempt to build a battleship with a jack-knife and a gimlet. In this respect Smith has fallen down badly and unquestionably so in the measure of some who would have preferred to see him present an argument in his own behalf that would have held up more forcefully. But the truth is he has proved the case of Governor Miller, who has contended that the Smith administration was one of promise rather than performance.

In practically each and every instance when Governor Miller has directed a question at Smith as regards State government, the latter, in his inimitable way, has dodged it, indicating a preference to discuss the weather. Governor Miller has not permitted Smith to avoid the issues of the campaign, and the fact is that far Smith has found himself in a position where, to rely on good fellow coloring for support, would get him nothing. He has been without a direct answer to the questions Governor Miller has put to him, and his failure to respond has reduced the prestige of the former Tammany Governor to such an extent that today he is like the salesman who has nothing to sell.

The whole story as to the capability and fitness of Smith, as compared with that of Governor Miller, is that Smith can only point to unfulfilled pledges and promises. Governor Miller can point to progress and performance. There is no denying that the intelligent people have checked up what Smith failed to do and what Governor Miller has done, and the vote on election day will not be a sad commentary on the thinking people of the great Empire State who cannot be fooled with words in a period when it can be truthfully said, "By their works ye shall know them."

A QUESTION

Does it indicate anything that there should not be the name of any political party, no political emblem, on the circulars issued in behalf of Congressional Candidate John J. Burns containing seven questions about Congressman Ward which the latter so promptly answered?

Why the absence of the name "Democratic Party" in describing Burns?—If the few words concerning him can properly be called a "description." Why the entire absence of the Democratic emblem? The Burns question implied that there was something Congressman Ward was concealing from the people or his district. Mr. Ward dispelled any such implication by his prompt and frank answers.

Surely, Mr. Burns ought to be willing to answer the single question asked by Congressman Ward: "Is Mr. Burns a business man or a retired business man, and in either case, where does he stand on any public question?"

The voters who have received the little circulars attacking Congressman Ward have a right to ask another question: "Why is the Burns political party affiliation so carefully concealed in his circulars?"

Congressman Ward very properly requested the voters of the Twenty-seventh Congressional district to "Ask Burns."

The fact that highway construction has been doubled and that the department has been conducted at less expense is something the people appreciate, for there is nothing more less expensive is something the people than good roads. The truth is with good roads and the barge canal in operation the big problem of transportation is about solved, and that means getting produce to market at a profit to the producer and to the consumer. This was done under the Miller administration.

While others have been talking about water power development, Governor Miller has been acting, and it will be no time now before the people will have cheaper light, heat and power. The state's water power belongs to the people, as Governor Miller says, and they should get the benefit of what belongs to them. It will be no time before every farm house will be lighted and heated with electricity at an expense below what the people are now paying.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Do fishes change their coats at the breeding season, as birds do?
2. I have heard that a hair out of a horse's tail left in water will in time turn to a hair snake. Is it true?
3. How big a fish can a fishhawk lift from water?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers to Previous Questions.
1. What should I feed quail to keep them around my place this winter? I want those we have now to stay.

Quail's winter food is chiefly weed seed. Give them grain and hay chaff to scratch through. Set up some brush for a wind-break on bare, hard ground, and strewn the chaff there. Or a big parking box can be used, open side away from wind. Buckwheat, millet, barley, cracked corn, rapeseed, sunflower seed, will attract. Also a supply of gravel or fine charcoal for grit.

2. Can minks be domesticated?
They can be raised under semi-domestic conditions, for fur, about as foxes and skunks are. Baby minks have been tamed occasionally and kept as pets; but are destructive and mischievous.

3. Which is the deadliest snake, the fer-de-lance cobra, or diamond-backed rattlesnake?
The King cobra from Malay Peninsula is generally estimated as the most dangerous snake, owing to its size—it grows to 10 feet—and its great muscular power. But the Cobra-de-Capello's poison is perhaps even more deadly. Some authorities give the fer-de-lance as most deadly of the western world, and others assert the diamond-back rattler is "second to none" for venom, and give it easily first place in North American serpents. This snake has large fangs and abundant venom, so that it is able to inject a large dose.

"ORPHANS" A FILM OF MAGNIFICENCE

You enter the Kingston Opera House this week and are ushered to your seat, the overture starts and at once the whole atmosphere changes and you start on a journey through a D. W. Griffith production that takes you out of yourself and behold there flashes on the screen a story that though old is made new again by the magic of a master's art. "Orphans of the Storm," a picture that in itself is very enormous—filled with the stress and storm of centuries ago, yet with a magical musical arrangement one is held spellbound by the magnificent scenes and excellent photography of the mammoth Kate Clark stage success. "The Two Orphans." Praised the country over, Kingston now is favored with this same beautiful photoplay that has entertained millions and is here for the balance of the week, twice daily at 2:30 and 8:15, given with all the elaborate settings that has made the picture famous which makes it impossible to show only twice daily.

Lillian Gish is the lovely Henriette Girard, heroine of the drama. Her role calls for light moods and sorrowful ones. Here is the main suspense of the story, although opposite her plays her sister, Dorothy, in the pathetic role of the sister orphan, blind Louise.

The plot, briefly stated, is that one orphan, rich born and the other low born, beautiful and good, are reared together by foster parents. Bereft of this protection by death, the two innocent lasses tempt the dangers of Paris. One is abducted by a nobleman, the other abandoned to the mercy of the beggars and thieves by whom she is enslaved. A heroic aristocrat rescues the abducted girl, Henriette, and falls in love with her. But the story gets its greatest movement from Henriette's devoted search for her lost blind sister, the search continuing through the turmoil of the revolution, with whose principal characters both girls are ritally concerned. The search proceeds thrillingly through the wildest of the storm, even to the execution block and the knife of the guillotine.

Joseph Schildkraut, the brilliant young Austrian actor who is starring in a New York stage play, "Lillom," is Mr. Griffith's nobleman hero, the Chevalier de Vaudray. His hero of the people, Danton made to figure tremendously in the story, is Monte Blue. For Mother Prochard the producer cast Lucille La Verne as one of the most remarkable female villains ever seen on the American screen. She is included among the many "finds" Mr. Griffith made for "Orphans of the Storm," another being Frank Puglia, as the lame Pierre Prochard, or "good" brother of the thieves' cellar. Pierre was played so sympathetically at the New York premiere of the film that Griffith retook some of the scenes to save him for the denouement, instead of permitting him to die after his defense of Louise from the outlaw brother. The latter is played by Sheldon Lewis. Another film favorite, Frank Losee, figures as the prefect of police; Catherine Emmett as the Countess de Lantres; Morgan Wallace as the Marquis de Presles; Leo Kolmer as Louis XVI, and Sidney K. Herbert as Robespierre, a finely drawn character who looms big in the climax of the storm.

Glittering conies, splendid dream-like fetes in silver gardens, fountains of wine, cathedral doors and faraway spires, Corot-like forest vistas, squalid underground vaults, grand dancing the Carmagnole in the lawless streets of Paris, silk clad grand-dames with monumental white wigs, harried battles between baying mobs and bayonet-bristling lines of infantry frenzied dashes of cavalry through narrow lanes, and powerful countryside. Of all these, "Orphans of the Storm" is a marvelous panorama—take it on the word of already convinced reviewers.

The triple keynote of "Orphans of the Storm" comprises crescendo emotion, historic thrills and art magnificence. There is a special symphony orchestra with complete score.

GAS BUGGIES—The Best Ways to Say Nothing

DAYS DON'TS

"It's absurd," said Saturday, "to forget that Days, too, say 'Don't'."

"But they do not only say 'don't' to children. They say it to grownups, too."

"Now yesterday, a lady wanted very much to wash out a few waist and handkerchiefs. Friday didn't object to that."

"But when it came to hanging them out to dry, Friday said:

"Don't do that, for it will rain."

"And sure enough it did rain."

"Then last Tuesday a lady was going out if it was fine and sunny. But instead it rained, and so Tuesday said to the lady:

"Don't go out in the rain. You have a cold and you will get wet and catch more."

"Now today it is raining. I don't care to have it rain often on a Saturday. Somehow it doesn't seem fair. I had promised the King of the Clouds for a long time that he could come around on my day."

"And so now when the people are wondering if it will keep on raining all day, I try to say to them:

"Yes, look at the clouds. You see it looks like a whole day of this kind of weather. Don't go on your picnic today."

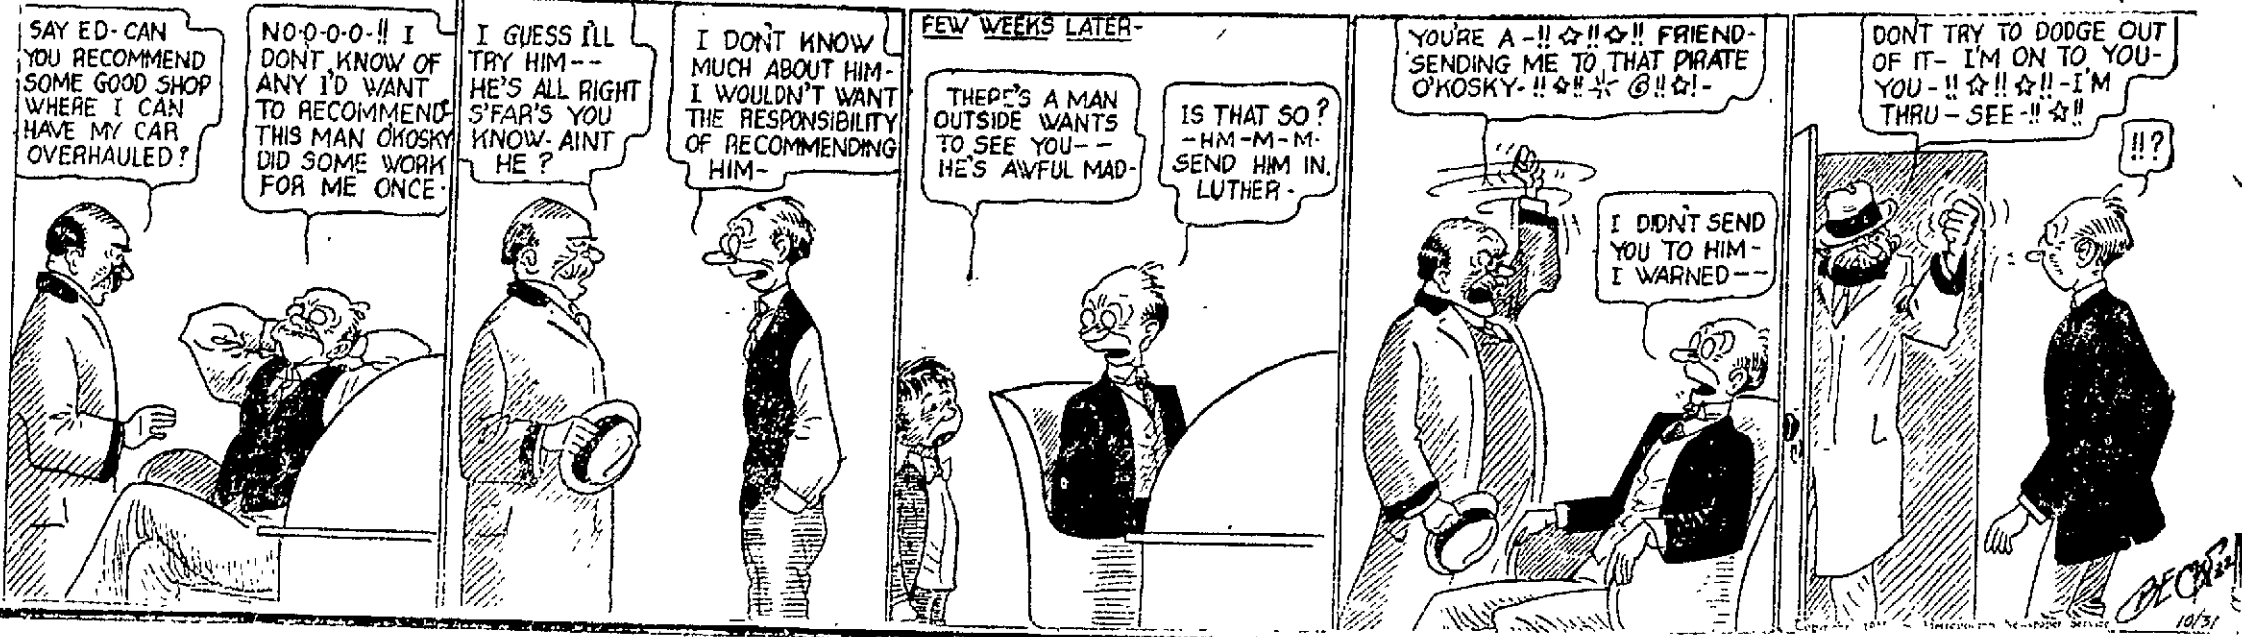

"Now, all of the Days do this way. Yes, all of us say 'Don't,' again and again."

"But when people say 'Don't,' they are usually grownups saying this to children, and as I explained before we have our 'Don'ts' for everyone of every age."

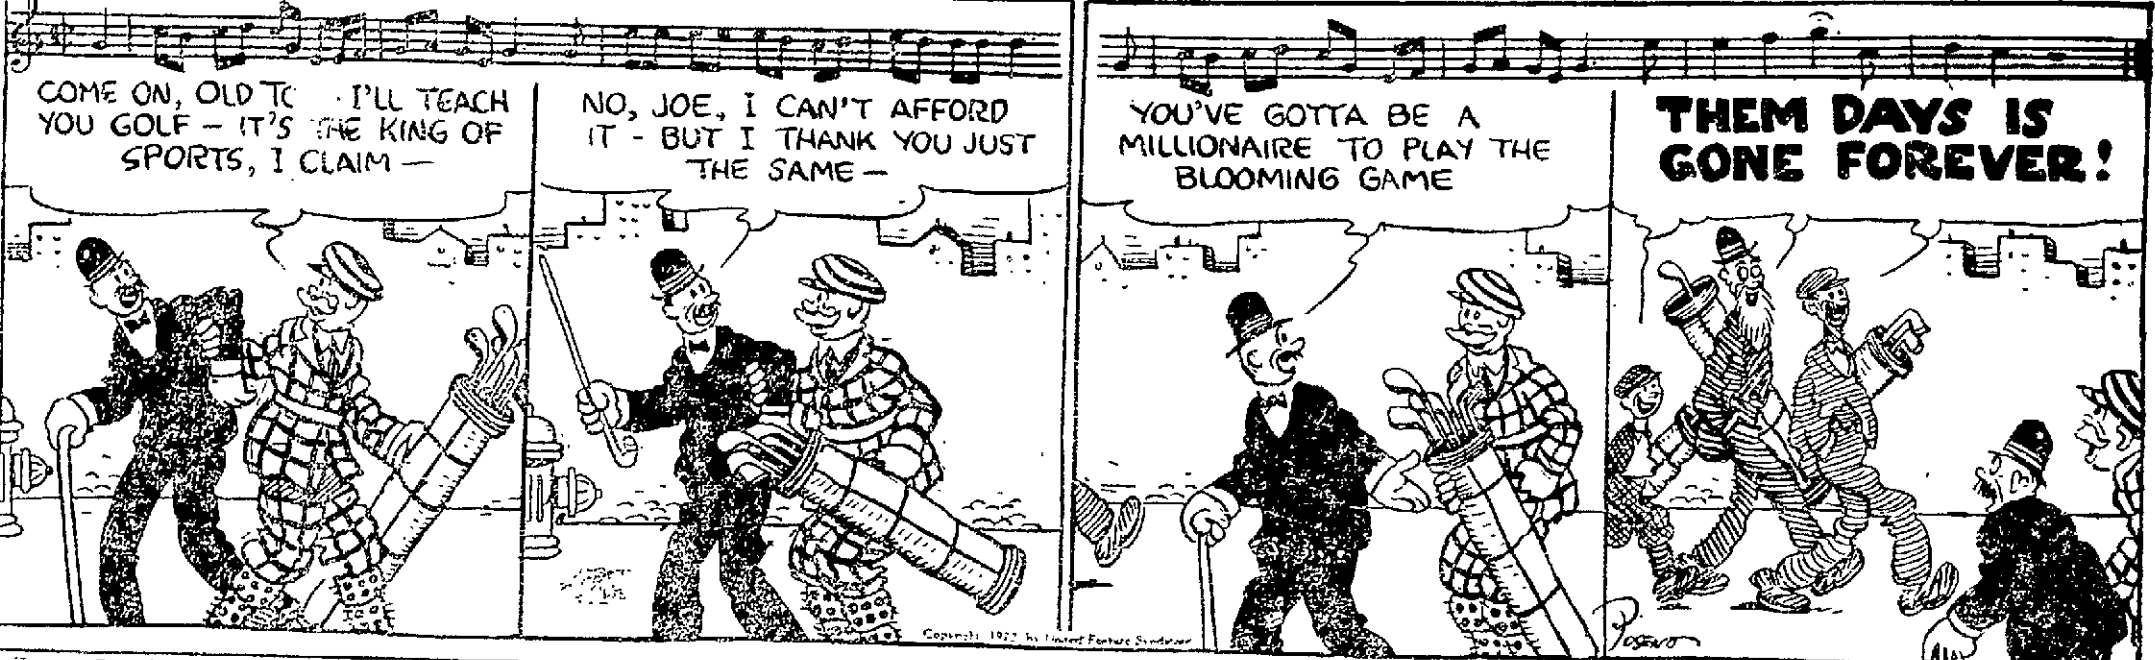

"And it is only natural that we should say 'Don't' once in awhile."

"For most of the time we are anxious for people to go ahead with their plans."

"Often we like to tell people to go ahead even if it will rain and not

GOOD THINGS YOU WILL LIKE

A green pepper stuffed with a good-flavored filling and baked until the pepper is well done, is a dish not to be refused.

Stuffed Peppers.

—The proportion of filling will depend upon the size and number of the peppers to be filled. Take a small piece of cooked ham, put through the meat grinder—one-half cupful will season four peppers—add one-half cupful of cooked veal, also put through the meat grinder, a cupful or more of bread crumbs, an egg to bind, seasoning of salt and pepper, a dash of onion juice and a teaspoonful of peanut butter with a handful of walnuts finely minced, well blended; this makes a most delicious filling. Cover the tops with well-browned crumbs and cook until well-browned in a moderate oven.

Floating Peaches.—Combine one cupful of milk with three-fourths of a cupful of peach juice, one teaspoonful of grated lemon rind, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt, and place in the top of a double boiler. When hot add three and one-half teaspoonfuls of cornstarch mixed with one-fourth cupful of peach juice and stir until thick. Cook for 25 minutes, then add slowly to a well-beaten egg. Return to the double boiler, add 12 marshmallows and cook five minutes. Remove from the fire, add flavoring, pour into individual serving dishes, a half of a canned peach on each and in each peach cavity a small spoonful of the custard; in this place a marshmallow. Serve with cream.

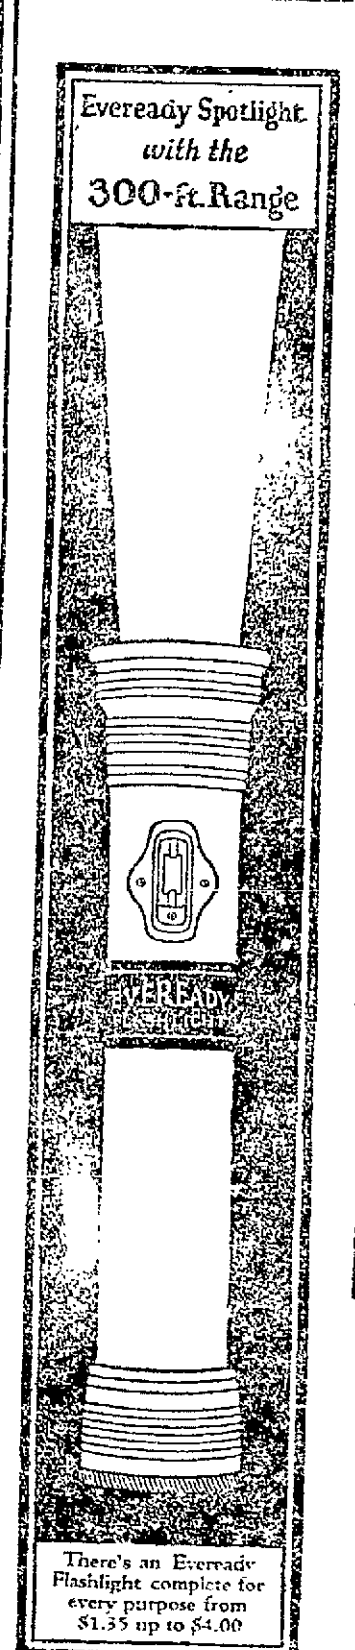

Peanut Loaf.—Dissolve one-half teaspoonful of beef extract in one-half cupful of hot water, add it to one and one-half cupfuls of ground peanuts, one cupful each of cooked rice and bread crumbs and one-half cupful of thick tomato sauce. Mold into loaf, butter well and place in a pan with a tablespoonful of drippings. Bake for 40 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with more tomato sauce.

Plants of Healing.

William Cole who wrote the "Art of Simplicity" in 1686, believed firmly in the healing virtues of plants, and based his theories upon certain external appearances of growth supposed to have been impressed on the plants by guardian angels. Thus the spotted leaves of lungwort were supposed to indicate its efficacy in curing diseases of the lungs, and the shape of the walnut to show that it was good for affections of the head. Plants were supposed to be under the peculiar influence of the sun, the moon, and the planets, and to possess virtue in accordance with their relative position at the time they were gathered, to the heavenly body which ruled them.

MUSICAL BUNCOMB GONE, SAYS MURPHY

Where is the artistic temperament of yesterday? Where is the slink-hatted, diamond-studded concert manager and advance agent? Where is the fuss and feathers, the impressive buncomb that used to herald the coming of musical celebrities?

Lambert Murphy the tenor, who will sing at the high school November 17, gives the answer: they are all buried under the same and practical ideas of the present day concert goers and music lovers. Not so many years ago, the public responded to glaring bill boards and thrilling press agent stories, because it knew practically little of artists and their abilities. Nowadays the phonograph, the musical journals, the plain business methods of managers, the closer association of musically interested people all over the country make a thing entirely undramatic of fifteen or twenty years ago. Today if an artist is successful in New York or Chicago, the country knows it in less than a week, and if he is mediocre or unfit to take place with representative musicians, the news travels just as quickly. It is to-coming more and more difficult to "put anything over" on the public. There is scarcely a household without the means of hearing good music and becoming acquainted with the best artistic names. In almost every school from Vallejo to California music is taught and the younger generation is made familiar with musical history and contemporary composers and artists. Education, declares Mr. Murphy, is building a discriminating public that is well posted on what is taking place in the musical world.

SOME WOMEN JEALOUS OF PRINCESS HERMINE

Tried to Break Up Match With Ex-Kaiser.

By Telegraph to The Freeman
London, Oct. 31.—Jealous women tried to break up the love match between William Hohenzollern, former German Kaiser, and Princess Hermine, of Reuss, his bride-to-be, according to a dispatch in the Daily Express today, quoting the princess.

"I know I love the Kaiser," Princess Hermine was quoted as saying. "He is one of the most generous and one of the most kind hearted men in the world. He is a good man but he is a poor manager and needs someone to look after him."

It was at this point that the princess revealed that other women, jealous of the attachment existing between the former emperor and herself, tried to have the engagement broken off. She continued:

"The former Kaiser is not rich. I am not marrying him because he was said to have money. I know that he has not. But that makes no difference. I am marrying for love. I know that I shall be the happiest woman in the world."

I have visited at Doorn. I know the conditions of the Hohenzollern household. I know how economically the house is conducted. Some of the meals are so scanty as to be almost poor."

The princess said that the former German crown prince had warned her that the ex-Kaiser was not easy to get along with but that this did not affect her love.

How It Happened.
"It was the first time I had ever driven a car," feebly explained the victim of the accident. "I got to going pretty fast and forgot how to stop. I looked ahead and saw a bridge rushing to meet me. I tried to turn out to let the bridge pass and—that is all I know about it."

HAVEN FOR MICE

Small Rodents Said to Infest New York's Skyscrapers.

According to Truthful Janitors, They Burrow into Steel and Concrete, and Establish Homes.

A stenographer on the third floor of a downtown office building recently aroused considerable comment by climbing on top of her desk and waving her arms around in the air and crying loudly for someone to save her. She had seen a mouse. Now, when she turned up in odd places in New York, everybody knows, remarks the Sun of that city.

It is of recent newspaper record that one came out of the stony walls of the aquarium and fell into the shark tank and another mouse is reported as emerging inside the Statue of Liberty, up near the top, and looking at a party of school teachers and starting a disturbance in which several of the teachers were badly shaken up.

"Mice!" exclaimed the head janitor of a steel and concrete skyscraper. "Is that the first mouse you ever saw round this job? Listen, I bring five cats to this place so far, and I have on this job just these weeks."

"Yes," replied the investigator. "And how have they come out?"

"You mean how have they gone out. You never saw cats go out of a place so fast. They take one look around and blow. When a mouse gets just so competent, you know, a cat doesn't eat him any more—he eats the cat."

Another building was investigated, one of the richest banks on Wall street, a structure of terra cotta, tile and marble and skeleton steel, and from basement to top floor library, the janitor says, it is one grand cheese.

That janitor has tried everything. He says he began with traps; but gave them up. Then he turned to professional exterminators. Every week they would come and kill all the mice in the building. Every week, he grew tired of having them around after a while and bought a high-priced cat. He still keeps the cat, but it is more for sentimental reasons than anything else. He likes to have something around to pet.

Still further investigation brought to light an incident which happened on the twenty-eighth floor of a Forty-second street skyscraper. The woman in charge of a roomful of girl filing clerks looked up to find her force suddenly begin to conduct itself in a way she never approves under any circumstances.

Three girls began to walk upon the tops of their desks. Three more shinned up the sides of filing cabinets. Another girl stood in a waste basket and called for the police. And the rest emitted about the office in a riotous manner.

The department head looked upon all this as a breach of discipline. She arose and went down into the heart of the riot, intending to say so. But arriving there she changed her mind. She let out a whoop which traveled half way across Manhattan Island, and picked up her skirts and fled.

A mouse had come out of the fresh air shaft looking for a cat.

Island Religious Shrine.
Star Island, one of the Isles of Shoals, ten miles off the tip of New Hampshire, has been a shrine exclusively to religious services for 120 years. On its rocky summit is a small graystone church which was built in the year 1800. This has been used ever since as a place of worship. First by the Methodists, then the Episcopalians, and now the Episcopalians, for the safe return of the sea and ones. During the last few years it has been a shrine for the Episcopalians and Congregationalists.

At the old church, which long lines of men and women, carrying small lanterns, used to come every winter and spend a few days there, their tents on the walls, and how their heads in prayer or raise their voices in appropriate hymns.

But Not His Perfumery.
Bobby, a five-year-old child of Irvington, had been suffering from quinsy and the specialist found it necessary to give the lad ether when he lanced his throat, says the Indianapolis News. As soon as Bobby had sufficiently recovered, plans were made to have the offending tonsils removed. In order to smooth the way, Bobby's mother said:

"Now, Bobby, the same kind doctor who took away the pain from your throat last week is coming again to remove your tonsils, so that you will never have another sore throat. You liked the doctor, didn't you?"

After a short pause, during which Bobby's face showed signs of unpleasant emotion, he answered:

"Yes, I liked the doctor all right, but I didn't like his perfumery."

Palladium and Platinum.
In the investigation of methods for assaying platinum, conducted by the bureau of mines, recent experiments have developed that with certain ores, especially when the quantity of platinum is considerable, little acid will not effect a separation of platinum and palladium. A method which has been found to be accurate and to result in a complete separation of these metals is described in Serial 2331, "Separation of palladium and platinum by means of dimethylglyoxime" obtainable from the bureau of mines, Washington, D. C.—Scientific American.

Forgiveness.
A deaf and dumb person being asked, "What is forgiveness?" took a pencil and wrote a reply, containing both poetry and deep truth embodied in these few words: "It is the odor which flowers yield when trampled upon."—Toronto Globe.

ENTERTAINMENT BY K. H. S. STUDENTS

Friday Evening at Auditorium—
Proceeds to Go Toward Equipping
Gym—Walls Have to be Padded.

When the Kingston High School was built, a gymnasium was included. A basketball court was also provided for the students. Along the west side of the gymnasium there are four of five brick projections enclosing the supports for the ceiling of the gym and the floor of the auditorium. These projections stuck out into the basketball court, and offer a very excellent opportunity for someone to hurt himself. Several times fellows have been injured, both in practice and in action, by coming in contact with the sharp edge of one of these projections. One visiting player having had his head cut open. It is impossible to move the court, and the projections cannot be eliminated until the brick wall made softer itself, so the only possible remedy is padding. While the matter of padding these walls has come to the attention of the board many times, but nothing has ever come of it, the cause being probably the expense. Convinced that nothing will ever be done unless fostered by the high school itself, the students are presenting an entertainment on Friday evening, November 3, at the high school auditorium for the purpose of properly equipping the gym. The padding of the walls is the first thing on the program for disposing of the profits. If there is anything left over, it will go toward putting in some things that will make the gym work more efficient.

Tickets, which are low in price, may be obtained from any member of the Varsity letter club, or at the high school, and there is no limit to the number of tickets any one person may buy.

EUROPE'S POLITICS REMAIN UNSTABLE

Unrest And Discontent Cause Coalitions Against Radicals in Nearly All Countries But Russia, Which Is Recuperating.

By Telegram to The Freeman

London, Oct. 31.—European politics are again going through a desperate era of turbulence and the crash of the coalition governments in England and Italy indicate that sensational developments may be expected later on.

Both the Tory and Liberal leaders in England, in their campaign speeches, are warning against "the Red route of Socialism and the threat of revolution by the Communist and labor factions."

In Italy the Fascist did not stop at speeches of warning, but forcibly seized the government and today the first anti-communist cabinet in western Europe is functioning at Rome.

After accepting the cooperation of labor for the overthrow of the Lloyd-George coalition government in England, the Tories, in their hour of victory, turned against the labor party.

There had been rumblings of unrest in Paris and indications that the Poincare ministry was facing collapse, were growing when the English cabinet fell. This acted as a prop for the French government, on account of the hostility which Premier Lloyd George had been showing towards M. Poincare and his colleagues.

Germany is on the verge of bankruptcy and at the present moment the Allied reparations commission is in Berlin trying to bolster up the mark and avert a crash. All Germany is torn with political strife and assassination plots.

Greece has just passed through a revolution that put a new government in power and even yet the new Adens administration is not any too secure. Plots are cropping up and at the present time the Greek crown prince is under arrest.

Revolution is reported from western Thrace in the Balkans.

Jugo Slavia has been caught between two fires—the Italian Nationalist movement in the west and Turkish machinations to the east.

The Near East peace conference which will open at Lausanne on November 12, threatens international complications and rivalries which may sow the seeds of another Balkan war.

In the meantime Russia, despairing of obtaining help or recognition abroad, has begun to reorganize and build from within and is steadily growing in strength.

The Good Influence of Real Comfort

THE home of real comfort has an influence that is unquestionable. It is the home to which a man returns at twilight—happy and eager—to be with his loved ones, secure in the knowledge that they are comfortable in their home. It is the home where friends like to come and where you are always ready to receive them.

It is the home where your boys and girls are satisfied to spend the evening, rather than at the corner "movie."

Burns to Answer Ward

John J. Burns, Democratic candidate for Member of Congress, who addressed a mass meeting at Catskill last night, was told on the telephone that Congressman Charles B. Ward had submitted to him a question, the question being "Is Mr. Burns a business man, or is he a retired business man, and in either case, where does he stand on any public question?"

Said Mr. Burns in reply: "I will answer this question. I am glad to know that Mr. Ward is around again and is seeking some information. I intend to be at the Democratic meeting at the Mechanics' Hall, on Henry street, in Kingston, on Wednesday night. And I intend to make some statements to the people who attend that meeting. These statements will be very plain, comprehensive and in language that all can understand. At that time I will answer the question that Mr. Ward has submitted, and it will not be a difficult question for me to answer. Perhaps when I am through making statements at that meeting Mr. Ward may think of some more questions he would like to ask. Or perhaps there will be some more answers coming to the people of the district, from Mr. Ward."

WALTON IS FOR THE AMENDMENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 31.—Figured out in dollars and cents, the voters' approval on November 7, of the proposed Constitutional amendment to increase the salaries of judges of the court of appeals, amounts to exactly $26,100 a year. In other words, it means less than two cents a year on a $10,000 assessed property valuation, or in five years it would figure out about equal to the cost of an ordinary cigar. If the amendment is passed, it will serve the purpose of equalizing salaries paid judges of the highest court in this state with those now paid judges whose decisions come before them for review. The last salary adjustment was made back in 1898, twenty-four years ago. Concerning the amendment which is to be voted upon, Charles W. Walton, secretary to the State Bar Association, has this to say: "The proposed amendment has been passed by two legislatures, and has the support generally of bar associations throughout the state. It should be borne in mind that the court of appeals is the court of last resort in the judicial system of this state, and its decisions are subject to review only by the supreme court of the United States in a limited class of cases, where questions arise under the Federal constitution, and are the most widely quoted of any state court. The honor and dignity of the court of appeals should be upheld, and the high standing of its decisions insured, by the payment of adequate salary."

The court of appeals consists of a chief judge and six associate judges. The present compensation is $13,700 for each associate judge, with $500 additional for the chief judge. There is no allowance for expenses.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Neat and Practical "Apron Frock." 4003. It will take but a few moments to adjust this trim and comfortable garment. One could make it of figured percale with a finish of pick rack—or feather edge—bias. The closing is at the side under the facing. In black sateen with crepe for trimming, or in crepe in a pretty shade of yellow with bands of white it makes a smart "tea" frock. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes. Small, 34-36, medium, 38-40, large, 42-44, extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. The width at the foot is about 2 1/2 yards. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

ASHOKAN.

Ashokan, Oct. 30.—Mr and Mrs Clifford Bogart of Kingston spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bogart.

A number of people from this place attended the funeral of Mrs. George Scribner at her residence at Spillway on Sunday.

Next Sunday night will be the Rev. D. E. Williams' last Sunday with us as pastor of the M. E. Church and we hope a large attendance will greet him at the service. The Rev. D. E. Williams has accepted a charge at New City, N. Y., and will leave here soon.

Miss May Bogart and Mrs. George Whittle were in Kingston Friday.

Miss Vera Van Steenburg entertained the Gem Society at her home on Saturday afternoon and plans were made to hold a meat-pie supper at the M. E. Church Hall on November 9, for the benefit of the M. E. Sunday school. Don't forget the date. Further particulars will be given later.

The regular business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be held at the home of Mrs. John Davis on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. D. E. Williams and daughter, Ruth, took supper with Mrs. Charles O. Davis on Saturday night.

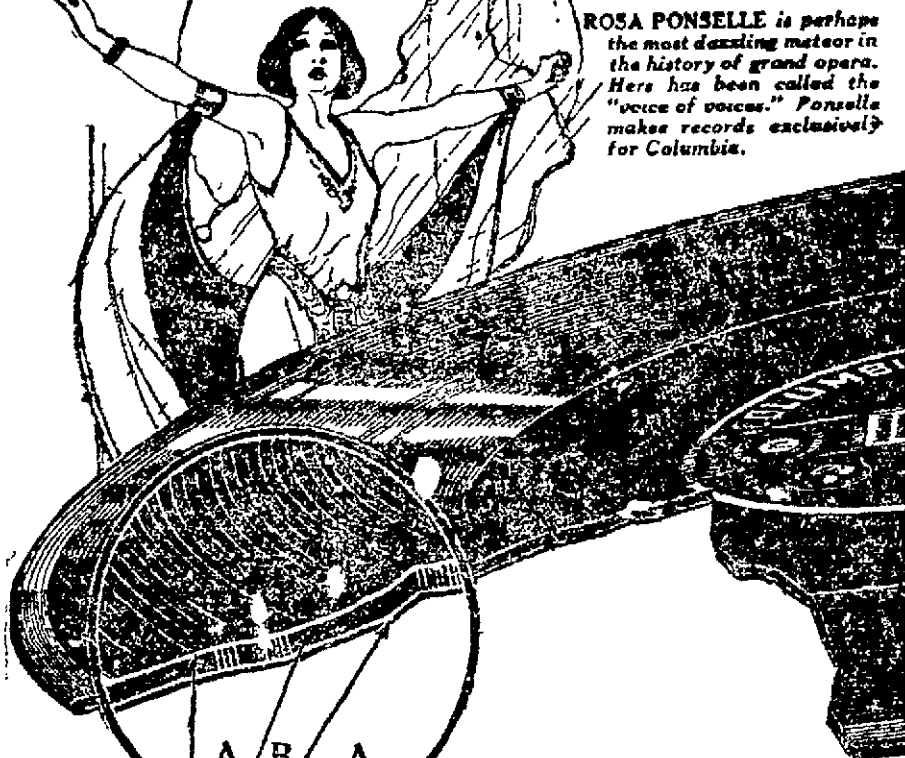

Charles Davis has had electric lights installed in his house.

Some Ancient Dyes.

The process of mordanting—fixing dyes in textiles by metallic salts—was discovered 2,500 years ago. One of the earliest dyes was kermes, a scarlet worm, known later as vermillion, which has survived in vermillion.

Startling Good News for Phonograph Owners!

Columbia discovers a process which produces records free from objectionable Surface Noise!

ROSA PONSSELLE is perhaps the most dazzling meteor in the history of grand opera. Here has been called the "voice of voices." Ponselle makes records exclusively for Columbia.

As a phonograph owner you have always been annoyed by the swish and grinding and scratching noises of records. This "surface noise" has been considered impossible to remove. After years of experiment, the Columbia Graphophone Company to-day presents to the world a record that is virtually noiseless.

This record has been made possible by the discovery, in Columbia laboratories, of a process by which we are able to produce a surface material so fine in texture, so marvelously smooth, so free from friction that the phonograph needle travels over it almost inaudibly and with imperceptible wear.

The playing-result from the use of this new material is actually astounding—no other word can describe it. Melody unmarred by penetrating, obtrusive surface sounds, harmony without disconcerting scratch or scrape—think what this means to you and to every phonograph owner in the world.

This is made practical by Columbia's patented laminated, or three-ply, construction. The core or centre leaf in Columbia New Process Records, because it is absolutely distinct from the playing surfaces, is made of a harder, more durable substance. Over this rigid backbone are laid the two playing faces made of the now, ultra fine, ultra smooth surface fabric.

This laminated construction gives greatly increased strength and longevity plus the most noiseless surface ever perfected.

The invention of this new process record by the Columbia Graphophone Co.—for it is the genius-creation of Columbia engineers and chemists—marks the greatest outstanding improvement since the invention of the universally used disc record.

With New Process Columbia Records you get all the real beauty of voice; all the exquisite, delicate tones of the cello and the violin! You get melody uncontaminated by objectionable surface noise that has been considered impossible to remove UNTIL COLUMBIA REMOVED IT!

So great is our confidence in the enjoyment New Process Columbia Records provide that we ask you to tear out the list of records in this advertisement, take it to a Columbia Dealer and have him play them! Possibly he can play the same selections by other makers! Each comparison test will be a greater Columbia triumph!

You will be thrilled by the Columbia reproduction of every note, every inflection; of the most delicate phrasing—shades of harmony exquisitely expressed that have previously been LOST IN SURFACE NOISES!

In comparison with ordinary records, as made by other manufacturers, New Process Columbia Records will prove immediately preferable.

No other record can be like New Process Columbia Records. No one can produce anything even resembling them, for they are fully protected by broad basic patents.

In no other record can you get the same wonderful degree of surface quietness and pure, uninterrupted music, for the simple reason that Columbia alone possesses the secret of making a material which, employed as a surface for phonograph records, obliterates obnoxious and intrusive surface sounds.

This new substance does not hush loud surface noises. They are never created. Surface noise is merely friction, the point of the needle grinding on microscopic roughness and multiplied by the sensitive reproducer. In New Process Columbia Records this microscopic roughness is refined away, till friction is almost a fiction.

With new and unbelievably quiet playing surfaces, the dream of making the phonograph a musical instrument of the highest and purest type has become a reality! Columbia's new surface discovery has solved the whole question! Reproduction of music has now entered a new and greater phase! To-day, the phonograph with the New Process Columbia Records is a masterful triumph. You can now buy Columbia New Process Records from any Columbia Dealer.

Go hear these Columbia Records! Take this list with you! Note the smoothness and fullness of Columbia tone! Note the beauty of expression! Note the seeming presence of the actual voice or instrument! GO hear these records to-day.

"ACCORDING TO THEIR MEANS"

Contributions of Church Members, a Century Ago, Evidently Meant More Than They Do Now.

Fresh-laid eggs are frequently deposited on the contribution plate in some of the backwoods Episcopal churches of the South. Which goes to show that the spirit of giving hasn't changed so very much in the 100 years of the Church Missionary society just being rounded out. The first report of the society, dated May 30, 1823, was dug up the other day, and while it shows no contribution of eggs, a score of other articles of merchandise seem to have found their way to the plate from people who gave "according to their means."

This report, for instance, shows that back in 1821 David Snethen gave a basket of groceries for the support of the missionaries; Stephen North contributed a medicine chest; William Royland, a cross-cut saw; Joe and John Needles, two sieves; S. May, a coffee mill. John and T. Clinchy contributed, alas! a singularly empty gift—a safe. John Durson came along with a tub, whether bath or wash is not stated. C. Buckley is credited on the books with "Deduction on hat," $1.50. John McAllister donated a thermometer.

Among the other miscellanies are hymn books, slates, spades, shoes, trousers, chairs, soap, bridles and locks. Finally, from one Richard Markill there is a hoghead of tobacco, which encourages the hope that some good missionary of the church in his lonely station afar off enjoyed a comfortable smoke.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph

Bird Evidently Without Fear. The ruddy honey-bird, a bird native of Borneo, makes its nest in the hive of a peculiarly vicious kind of bee.

Co-Operation in Japan. At the eighteenth national convention of co-operative societies recently held in Tokyo, 12,000 delegates were on hand representing 2,850,000 "co-operators," belonging to 3,770 local organizations, according to reports of the meeting received by the all-American co-operative commission of Cleveland. Banking is one of the strong features of Japanese co-operative activities.

Arctic Sea Cow Extinct. An authentic writup of the Arctic sea cow (now extinct) was made about the middle of the eighteenth century by George William Steller, who was shipwrecked on Bering Island, 1741, with the Russian navigator, Capt. Vitus Bering. This "cow" was not unlike the manatee or dugong of southern waters, weighed 8,000 pounds, and was 20-30 feet long. Steller and his companions ate its flesh.

Leaders of Women. Officers of the National Women's Party have met in Washington to plan their campaign for equal rights. From row, left to right: Mrs. Donald D. Hooker, chairman of the Maryland Committee; Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, national president; Mrs. Townsend S. Scott, of Baltimore, and Miss Sue White, of Nashville, Tenn. Back row, left to right: Miss Maude Younger, legislative chairman of San Francisco; Dr. Caroline Spencer, of Colorado Springs; Coby, Mrs. Sara Gregg, district of Columbia chairman, and Mrs. Sophie Meredith, of Richmond, Va.

TO HEAR Pablo Casals is to have born in one an utterly new conception of the magnificence and beauty of the violoncello in the hands of a master. Casals makes records exclusively for Columbia.

WOMAN KILLED BY BOY MINER ON STATE CAR WRECK TRIAL FOR MURDER

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 31.—Mrs. William R. Warren, wife of the chief of the library and extension bureau of the New York state board of education, died in St. Francis Hospital last night from injuries she received when a state highway department car struck a tree and turned turtle on the North Road here yesterday. She suffered fractures of both thighs and one knee, internal injuries and many cuts and bruises.

Frederick W. Barr, first deputy commissioner of the highway department, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and a severe cut on the back of his head. Mrs. Warren has a fractured right leg and internal injuries. John F. Huber, senior assistant engineer of the highway department, has a fractured leg and minor lacerations. Charles and Robert Trumble, chauffeurs, are lacerated and bruised. The condition of Mr. and Mrs. Barr is critical. They are unconscious.

The accident occurred at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the party was traveling toward New York. A motorist of Robert Hone, an employee of the highway department, drove a car from the driveway. Tracks in the road indicated that the driver of the state car saw the other machine fully seventy feet away, set the brakes and swerved to the left, apparently expecting the driver of the smaller car to hurry ahead or stop. The larger car struck the smaller one and hurled it across the road. With brakes set and wheels locked it then plunged into a maple tree and turned over. Mrs. Barr was hurled through the windshield a distance of thirty feet and Mrs. Warren, who was seated next to her, was dashed against a stone wall. The chauffeur was jammed against the steering wheel.

Lake Katrine, Oct. 31.—A Halloween party was given to the young children of Lake Katrine on Saturday at four o'clock, by the members of the "C" club at the Grange Hall. It was quite a cute affair. Some of the children masked and it certainly was fun to see them romping around. They played some games and then the children visited the "ghost" who gave them a present if they promised to be good. Refreshments were served later. The table was decorated in orange and black and it looked very attractive. The children left at six o'clock assuring "C's" that they had a good time.

Salvador's Riches.

Gold and silver mined high among Salvador's products. Up-to-date methods in gold mining were introduced 20 years ago, when an energetic American engineer obtained a property of high grade ore and put in place, with British capital, a most complete equipment. Later, acquiring a large tract of low-grade ore, he agreed to permit government students to complete their studies in mining and metallurgy at his properties. Thus Salvador obtained, without expense, a mining school.

Small Matter, Anyway.

Our neighbor's wife bought some household labor-saving article from a slick-tongued salesman the other day. When her husband came home she told him about it. "What is this device for?" he asked. "Gracious," replied the wife, "the agent talked so fast I forgot to ask him."—Chicago Daily News.

Origin of "Hustings."

Husting was the name of an ancient court held in the city of London. In its present sense the word denotes the place where members of parliament were nominated before the ballot lot of 1872 rejected the form of nominating openly. From this it has come to be applied to any electioneering platform.

The Red Plump Comb Denotes this Layer.

the front of the leg where the leg joins the foot and fades upward and back. The reddish color around the edges of the eyelid also fades with production.

The molting of the fowl is another definite index of production. The mottled is almost invariably the best layer. The stage of molt is a good index as to whether one bird has been a better producer than the other. A fowl usually molts in the neck first, then the body, the tail, and the wing, starting from the center and molting in both directions. This might vary a little in rare cases.

The above are some of the indications which are used in judging production contests.—H. Emberton, Poultry Division, Oklahoma A. and M. College.

POOR FOWLS LOWER PROFITS

Smaller Flock of High Producers Will Prove Far More Satisfactory—Cuts Feed Bill.

There is certainly no room for fowls on any farm when they lay so few eggs during the year that they scarcely pay for the grain and other feed they get. A smaller flock of high producers will make twice the profit with a smaller cost for feed and housing space. When a hen begins to molt, taking most of the summer and fall to replenish her supply of feathers, it is about as sure a sign as a poultry-raiser needs that she is an undesirable bird.

ENCOURAGE PULLETS TO LAY

With Small Amount of Attention and Care Young Fowls Will Produce Much Earlier.

Most pullets raised on the farm start laying when they are about ten months old in spite of the fact that a small amount of attention and care would bring them into laying when they are from six to seven months old. Getting eggs three months earlier at a time when egg prices are likely to be high is an important factor in increasing the profits from the flock.

DETERMINE BEST LAYING HEN

Fowls With Full Crops on Going to Roost at Night Are in All Probability Good Layers.

You can help to decide which hens are kept at a loss by going through the house just after dark and feeling the crop of each bird. Those hens whose crops are packed full are in all probability the hens which are laying well. You may well be suspicious of the hen which night after night has only a partly-filled crop.
